Report: Onsite Management Visit

DPE: Arrienne Ditchburn School member: Mr Matt Hall

Priorities from the consultation are detailed below:

Since the school have returned

The school have made the following improvements and changes since the last visit-

- Data protection is now covered in the code of conduct
- Best practice guidelines have been given to all staff
- Data protection has been mentioned verbally at meetings, ensuring continued awareness by staff
- Many platforms and services have been adopted since the pandemic. This is an opportunity to review how this was done and suggest improvements to the system for the future

Recommendations-

- Ensure all contacts, old and new, have data sharing agreements where necessary
- Policies and culture should be inline. Staff should be aware of their responsibilities and how to access policies when they need them
- Consider a working from home policy. A template is available on the DPE Knowledge Bank
- CCTV Data Protection Impact Assessments and policies should be reviewed for compliance

Training

A face-to-face session was discussed. The inset day in January has been highlighted as a good opportunity for an online lesson to be delivered effectively and safely. This would include general but relevant data protection advice, recent examples of data protection breaches and requests, as well as working from home do's and don'ts.

Another key area of training is cyber security. As more schools are seeing some type of cyber-attack, preparing staff is essential. The Knowledge Bank has a course that staff can take at their convenience.

Data Protection Education are also releasing a phishing simulation that could be used by the school after a successful training programme. This simulation would allow the school to identify areas of improvement and tailor the advice and further training to specific areas.

New members of staff are often a group which miss the annual, or bi-annual data protection training. It is recommended to add this into the new starter pack of information received at the beginning of employment and to make the training a mandatory module within their first few weeks of work.

Freedom of Information training is also an area that often is overlooked due to the training requirements placed upon many members of staff. Targeted training for those likely to encounter such a request is recommended to ensure compliance with the law.

Other training specifically for office staff is also recommended. This group of employees come into contact with a significant amount of information and are likely to encounter many different data protection matters. Specific and tailored training to those individuals is recommended.

Policies

The policies, available on the school website, were last updated July 2019. DPE to review and make recommendations on all data protection relevant policies.
