Hi Mel,

Thanks for following up with this so quickly. To clarify, governors and trustees can be involved in confidential and personal information such as employee disciplinarys and parental complaints. It is when they share this kind of information over their personal or work email that it is harder for BILTT to mitigate the risk of a data breach as essentially private and confidential information is leaving your organisation and so you have no control over it. By nature SARs and disciplinarys can also include special category data which has additional protection. By using the BILTT email address it also means when a subject access request is received by you, you can be sure that you are gathering all of the correct information when doing a search (you cannot search personal and other work emails for example). It also means that the emails are covered by BILTT's retention policies, which again, is essential to mitigating risk when dealing with private and confidential information. You would also perhaps have to consider whether you would need to include the list of email addresses and organisations of those personal and work email addresses as part of your third party sharing list as essentially private information has been shared with them. Therefore, it is always strongly advised that governors use the school/MAT's email address for all BILTT correspondence to not only protect BILTT but the individuals concerned. Not being able to log in is not a valid reason for doing it.

As I said, if necessary, I am more than happy to meet with any of the trustees to explain this if you need more help in getting them on board.

It was really lovely to meet you.

Many thanks,

Hi Paula

I have just had a meeting with Tammy Buchanan our Data Protection Officer. During the meeting she raised a concern that many of our Governors and Trustees are using their personal email addresses rather than the BILTT email addresses they have been provided with. Tammie explained that if Trustees and Governors are sending and receiving BILTT confidential emails from their personal email accounts this is a data breach and would need to be recorded as such. It is imperative that now it has been raised as a concern by our DPO that we take action immediately. I would ask that all Trustees and Governors no longer receive emails to their personal accounts and instead use their BILTT addresses. If emails are sent from Trustees and Governors from their personal email addresses, these will not be responded to by BILTT staff. This action needs to take place no later than Friday 4th November.

Kind Regards

Mel
