Hi Caroline,

Thanks for your email. The recommendation from the ICO is that staff undertake data protection at least every two years. We would recommend those staff that have access to additional special category data, such as SEND information, undertake some of the other courses.

Generally speaking staff are sent links to courses to do or documents to read and when they login they see a different dashboard to those that are admins. This means it should be fairly straightforward for them to know what to do. I would advise that everyone at least knows how to recognise a SAR and a data breach and know what to do. I would also recommend going to the poster section on the website and putting some up around the school as this is passive learning and can help: <https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/documents/drip-feeds>. The poster entitled 'DPE Quick Reference Guide' is particularly helpful for staff. We would recommend any of the short learning nuggets where appropriate on the Knowledgebank that are quick for staff to be able to login to and may help prevent a data breach in the future.

We also advise making sure that data protection training is part of any onboarding process for staff so that they are trained as soon as they start. Remember if anyone is unsure the safest thing for them to do is just email: dpo@dataprotection.education and is something that you can remind staff about at staff meetings or in newsletters.

I hope that helps,

Many thanks,
Tammy

Just a quick one - am I right in thinking:

- as we've all done GDPR training with James this academic year we are ok for that
- rather than all staff go through training on how to use the portal now when they do not need to, and so won't remember if/when the time comes, they can just watch the little videos connected to the tasks as/when they need to?

Hope that makes sense!

Hi Caroline,

That's great thanks for getting the aliases set up - I have now added those two to the Knowledgebank as well. Also thanks for checking about the personal emails.

Now that everyone is on the Knowledgebank, Poverest might like to assign training courses to staff - the information on how to do that is here:

<https://dataprotection.education/news-top/news/165-using-the-knowledge-bank/291-assigning-users-to-courses>

We would recommend that data protection training is completed every two years as a minimum.

Many thanks,
Tammy

We don't use personal email addresses for staff, it's only certain things that are not confidential that we may use them for those staff that are only contracted to be with us on an adhoc basis.

Please don't think that we use personal emails for anything other than things like asking them not to forget to bring their timesheet in.

It's just so that they don't have to access 2 seperate emails just for something as simple as "don't forget your timesheet".

Bluefox, our IT consultant was in today (that's another company that we use that I probably forgot to tell you about) and they have created aliases:

koconnor@poverest.co.uk
vokeeffe@poverest.co.uk

Hi Caroline,

I've added the governors for you now as well. The personal email address policy should really come from the organisation (whether that is the head teacher or the trust) not the individual. If the individual is unable to access their work email regularly then they should be offered training or help with that. Otherwise it leaves the school open to lots of issues, not just around data but information security in general. I would recommend investigating if they are using their personal email address for work purposes. It is possible to ask your IT department to not allow auto forwarding of the schools email to personal emails for the same reasons (this is often done by governors).

Many thanks,
Tammy

Many apologies, this must be what they have requested to go on the school's database!
I've redone the list and added the Governors on the bottom - see attached.

I'm waiting to hear back from our IT consultancy about Kay and Viv's emails and will get back to you as soon as I know how we want to proceed.

Thanks.

Hi Caroline,

Just to let you know that I have completed this now apart from the two people with the apostrophe's in their names as I'm waiting to hear from you on that. While going through the list I noticed that there are some personal email addresses on there. While it is probably OK for staff to use these for training purposes I would not recommend using them for staff business - if, for example, student information was sent using a personal email address then that data would be sent out of the Poverest systems which you do not have control over, so is something to be aware of. Strictly speaking anything work related should be linked to a work/organisation email address. A good way to explain this to staff that are reluctant to use their school email addresses would be if you had a SAR request would they be comfortable with you searching through their personal emails for the data required to fulfil that SAR?

I look forward to hearing from you and hope the start of term isn't too hectic!

Many thanks,
Tammy

Hi Caroline,

Just to advise, I have done this today. The website had issues yesterday so was unable to do it then unfortunately. Also to advise when it imports it will import them all as staff, the job roles section is done elsewhere - I have imported all of the job titles/roles and will work my way through assigning those to everyone today between meetings (people can use the system before I do this so should not be a problem).

The system also will not accept names and email addresses with apostrophes in so the following two did not import:

Kay O'Connor and Vivian O'Keeffe

In these circumstances we normally ask if your IT department is able to provide an alias email address without the apostrophe? for example, vokeeffe@poverest.co.uk for the purposes of being able to login to the Knowledgebank?

Just as an added note you might want to think about adding the Governors/Academy Council as they should also be doing data protection training and be able to report data breaches etc.

I hope that helps,

Many thanks,
Tammy

Dear all

As you are aware our Data Protection Officer is DPE (Data Protection Education). James from DPE came in on 5 October and delivered a training session for all the staff that were able to attend.

They are now arranging for you to access their online portal which is where you will find information and be able to record any GDPR issues that arise.

You will receive information on how to access this portal via email in the near future. Please keep an eye out for it and have a look through the portal.

I'm here if anyone needs any clarification or help.

Thanks.
