Hi Paula,

Thanks for sending this through. Myself and a colleague have checked it and would advise that you re-instate the following line as per the template:

19.1. Photographs and videos will only be collected and stored by the organisation, organisation staff and workforce with a documented lawful basis as in accordance with the organisation Photography Images and video policy document.

We would advise not using the word permission. It is always best to use a documented lawful basis over consent if it is there. I would also advise that you view our photo and video policy in conjunction with this:

<https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/documents/procedures/153-model-photos-and-vidoe-policy>

We also discussed the GDPR letter that you have on your website and would advise removing it and looking at the Photos and videos best practice area for photo consent templates/advice:

<https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/best-practice/photos-and-video>

You would also need to add the privacy notices as discussed:

<https://dataprotection.education/index.php/best-practice-library/best-practice/transparency>

This is a good first step in a commitment to compliance. This area on the Knowledge Bank, gives further help and advice in this area:

<https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/best-practice/commitment-to-compliance>

I hope that helps,

Many thanks,

Tammy
