Hi Gordon,

Good to meet you yesterday and thank you for showing me around your school.

I have changed your login to be admin for St Mary Cray rather than staff. This means that you will now see a different view and have access to more information going forward. I have e both you and Dan so that you are able to get best use out of the system going forward, so I will send an email to Kalina, in our customer support team, to arrange for you.

Please find below some follow up information:

Class Dojo - I looked through the tickets and Verity did raise a ticket about this in March. I will check on the due diligence status of this with the legal team and come back to you.

Arbor - we have completed the due diligence for this:

Organisation Name	Assessed?	Does the third-parties Privacy Policy include commitments to	Does the third-parties Privacy Notice include	Link to third-party privacy policy/notice:	Link to third-party terms and conditions:
Arbor Education Partners Ltd	Medium	Data principles, Data protection by design , Processing data lawfully, The rights of data subjects , The vendors approach to information security	A description of the information the vendor collects, Why the data is collected, How it is processed, Who data is shared with, Data retention	https://arbor-education.com/about-us/data-protection-gdpr/	https://arbor-education.com/legal-statement/

Some schools either list in their privacy notice or on their website suppliers that they share data with. For example, in the pupil privacy notice, you would list all of the suppliers you share notice doesn't list them. Here is an example of the way one school does it, to give you an idea: Trowse Primary School - GDPR. I will add this to the final Trust report though as a note

We have some information about supplier due diligence here on our website:

<https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/best-practice/due-diligence-best-practice-area>

We also discussed email retention and any best practice around emptying the deleted and sent folders. I will also mention this to the Trust, given you have an organisational level set up

You can find your Making the Rounds (data walk) visit details by logging onto the Knowledge Bank and going to My Activities -> Making the Rounds, and it will be listed. If you access it listed dynamically (although there are some misleading titles currently the actual feedback is correct). The status is set to action required, which means that it is now over to the school consider appropriate based on any feedback given and the known risks at the school. You can update the actions tab with any actions completed (I do not receive any notification of this visits are complete.

You can use my contact details below to contact me, however, if it is an urgent problem I would recommend emailing dpo@dataprotection.education as this then goes to the whole team

Many thanks,

Tammy Buchanan
