Hi Dan,

Thank you for your time yesterday and for showing me around your school. It was good to meet you. Please find below some follow up information.

I spoke to Arrienne about the SAR questions that you had:

- Regarding the safeguarding question about sharing safeguarding information for a SAR, she said that often schools do mistakenly think that they do not need to provide safeguarding information. She also said if the safeguarding information would be harmful in any way to those mentioned then it should not be disclosed, but this does not happen that often.

- Regarding employee non-redaction - there is a clause in the Data Protection Act of 2018 that states that it is reasonable not to ask for consent to disclose those details if the person works in education. The requirement is to be transparent. I would advise that as you are concerned about this that you contact Arrienne directly. She works part time at the moment and is available on Mon/Wed/Thurs. Her phone number is 07793552750.

You can find your Making the Rounds (data walk) visit details by logging onto the Knowledge Bank and going to My Activities -> Making the Rounds, and it will be listed. If you access it via edit mode you will see the feedback items listed dynamically (although there are some misleading titles currently the actual feedback is correct). The status is set to action required, which means that it is now over to the school and trust to put into place any actions that they consider appropriate based on any feedback given and the known risks at the school. You can update the actions tab with any actions completed (I do not receive any notification of this). I will give feedback to the Trust when all the visits are complete.

I know we had a chat about Chromebooks and viewing Microsoft files, is there any reason that these can't be viewed in a browser - I believe that this is the recommended method when using a Chromebook?

I went to St Mary Cray in the afternoon and Gordon said he started at the same time as you, so I thought it might be useful to organise an online demo of the Knowledge Bank for you both - you might like to invite Serena as well? I will send an email to Kalina, the lady in our customer support team that does this, to organise it.

You can use my contact details below to contact me, however, if it is an urgent problem I would recommend emailing dpo@dataprotection.education as this then goes to the whole team who can provide help and advice when I am out visiting schools.

Have a lovely weekend.

Many thanks,

Tammy Buchanan
