Hi Lisa,

Thank you for your email. I think he would have shown you the Record of Processing - if this is filled in then you can automatically create a DPIA at the press of a button. Just to be transparent, the new Data Protection Bill is making its way through Parliament (we have no idea how long it will take or what all the amendments will be), but it is suggesting at the moment that schools may not have to complete a record of processing. I previously sent you the step by step due diligence article, and I would suggest that as a minimum you have a list of suppliers that you share information with, then the next stage is to list what data you share with each of those. The next step after that is to add the third parties into the Knowledge Bank by copying across from any generic third party suppliers as per the guidance I sent. You will be able to choose those third parties and/or software as you work your way through your ROP, but you have to have inputted them first.

If you have a new supplier, or a current one that you are not sure about and would like some due diligence completed. I would recommend downloading the due diligence supplier form (it has just been updated): <https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/documents/procedures/135-supplier-due-diligence-form>

There's more guidance in the best practice area: <https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/best-practice/due-diligence-best-practice-area>

Write to the company's data protection lead and ask them to complete the form. Once they return it to you, raise a ticket and upload it to the Knowledge Bank asking for Victoria to complete the due diligence. Alternatively, let me know and I'm happy to send it on your behalf from our dpo@ email address. James only really advises a full DPIA to be completed if the risk is high. The DPIA best practice area states: You must do a DPIA for certain types of processing, or any other processing that is likely to result in a high risk to individuals.

I hope that helps.

Many thanks,
Tammy

Hi Tammy,

So one of the things I'm looking at doing is updating our DPIA. If I'm perfectly honest we did it years ago and now it just sits there. We review any new services we intend to take up (with your help - thank you!) but I don't feel like we have good documentation of this either.

Your DPIA guidance seems to say, "Don't do a DPIA, just do a record of processing as it scoops up everything". In James' DPIA presentation it showed a tool on the KB, but I can't seem to find the [thing] that was shown. It seemed like it walked you through a checklist. See screenshot below. Can you help signpost me? I found this: Risks and DPIA's \(dataprotection.education\) but it doesn't seem to be the same thing?

Thanks for your help!

Hi Lisa,

Thanks for your time today. It was good to see you again. Please find below the details we discussed:

Data Protection Policy - this has been updated on the website

Privacy Notices - the model privacy notices can be found here: <https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/best-practice/transparency>

Governors - you will try to 'recruit' a data protection governor who might also be able to go through the Cyber/Information Security Checklist: <https://dataprotection.education/component/tjucm/itemform/cyber-security?>

Newsletter - I have sent an email to James to ask if there is a way we can trace/check why you might not have received the newsletter.
Most of the news items on the website do not need a login to view - you could check which ones by viewing it in a Chrome incognito window. This means that the links could be sent to staff for additional training/awareness. This one for example: <https://dataprotection.education/infosec/351-cyber-attack-wiltshire-school>

Suppliers - we talked about the third-party contract area on the website, further instructions are here: <https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-update/296-due-diligence-step-by-step>
I will check on the Weeduc one.

I will shortly send through the in person data walk (Making the Rounds) meeting for 17th October - I look forward to seeing you then.

Many thanks,
