Hi Paula,

As discussed, I have had a look at your privacy notices. We normally recommend the following three, but I can only see one on your website?

Our recommendation is that you have the following three:

DPE Model Data Privacy Notice PupilsDPE Model Data Privacy Notice WorkforceDPE Model Data Privacy Notice General

It may be when you first did this in 2018 that was not the case. The one on the website is due for review in the new year anyway, so that might be a good time to make the change. The one that you do have also doesn't mention CCTV at all, and you definitely had that at one of the schools I visited last year - this should be mentioned in all of them as you are recording and monitoring pupils, staff and visitors (governors, parents, third parties). I can see this is mentioned in your Data Protection policy but should also be in your privacy notice for transparency reasons. You would normally make a reference in the privacy notices to the CCTV and advise that further details are in the data protection policy.

You don't need to publish the Workforce privacy notice on your website but staff do need to be aware of where it is and be able to access it, so perhaps on your SharePoint site. They should be reviewed regularly and updated if any changes in data processing happens, such as having a new system in place.

Further information about privacy notices can be found in our Transparency Best Practice area: <https://dataprotection.education/best-practice-library/best-practice/transparency>

I hope that helps.

Many thanks,
